

Mars Class

Happy New Half Term to you all.

I hope that you all had a lovely Easter break filled with lots of chocolate eggs. We certainly had a mixed bag of weather – sunshine one day, snow the next!

I'm sorry for my absence last week. My husband had an operation during the Easter holidays and it took him longer to recover than we expected. I needed to step into his shoes and feed the hungry calves and look after the farm! The hungry calves, eager for their breakfast every day, reminded me strangely enough of school and made me miss you all very much.

This half term.....

Our learning will see us explore the Maya civilization –we will explore the era and the location in depth. In Math's we are ready to explore angles, ratio, shape and space in more depth. In English we will kick start our writing and reading with a unit based on a book called Weslandia. To delve more into our exciting curriculum for this half term please visit our planning pages in our curriculum section on our website.

Homework....

Will resume from this week. Check on Google Classroom.

Reading, lovely reading (of course!)Remember - if you would like to borrow a (fiction) book from our library to have at home to read, you are very welcome to. Please ask. Our class story book is 'Young Nanny' by Frances Mary Hendry – which we will finish.
